Some history

Pedagoogia 3000 was created in 2001 by Noemi Paymal, together with a multidisciplinary international team, aware of the major changes that are happening to today's children and youth in various areas: physiological (metabolism), psychologist, emotional, cognitive, behavioural, ethical and existential, which has been nowadays widely reported and evaluated by doctors, psychologists and teachers at a worldwide scale. At that time, we begin the first international multidisciplinary researches within these fields, first in Latin America, then in Europe and other countries.

Conference and workshop tours – To date, more than 1200 conferences and workshops have taken place in many countries and we have been able to exchange feedback and reports from all these countries. An international tour with 77 events took place in 2011, which has gathered together various continents. Another world tour in 2013 had a total of 56 events in Spanish, French, and English.

Publications – The results, as well as the corresponding educational tools are gathered in the book Pedagoogia 3000, translated and available in English and partly in French. Additionally, 6 mini-books, 33 practical notebooks, as well as 22 videos, 2 television programs and 22 radio programs have been offered to the public, free of charge. Electronic newsletters are sent to 33 countries each month.

Network Development – In 2008, we started emAne, a Worldwide Link for a New Education. In 2013, Asociación 3000 was created in Bolivia, in order to effectively echo the emAne Foundation, in charge of the global network. Similarly, we formed the Consortium 3000 to give to projects an organizational solid base and be able to address the ever-growing demand within various sectors for updated information, tools and orientation at all levels. In 2011, a team of international specialized doctors, psychologists and education specialists reinforced applied researches through the Scientific 3000 Alliance Agreement. In addition, a team of technicians design written materials and audio visual products, for adults, teachers and general public. Meanwhile a public program called Information Resource Centre started facilitating the creation of a network and physical centres of volunteers interested in new educational programs. The core teams are present in several countries first within Latin America, where they are called “Fractal Focus Points” (“Puntos Focales Fractales”) and then expanding in Europe and other continents.

Creation of the Institute and Interactive Academies - In 2012, a virtual Institute was created uniting several countries with applied researches making emphasis on the potential of the right hemisphere, among others. 50 Certified Facilitators have been trained in 2013 and 2014, preparing them to open interactive academies in various countries, and at the same time hundreds of Schools use Pedagoogia 3000 tools, in formal or informal way. At University level two Chairs have opened, in Maracaibo, Venezuela and in La Plata, Argentina. Plus active collaboration is taking place for investigation and publications with the Mexican Universities of Toluca, Universidad Autónoma del Estado de México and UABC, la Universidad Autónoma de Baja California and Universidad Mayor de Santiago in Chile.
